One of the most impressive things about high school days is the teachers. Their devotion to their work and their willingness to make good citizens out of their students have made an impression of some kind on everyone of us. We feel that Mrs. Gray is an excellent example of a dedicated teacher.

She has served on the P. H. S. faculty in the Business Education Department and as the yearbook and newspaper advisor for two years. In this relatively short time, our school and student body has benefited greatly from her efforts to make this a place of better education.

Therefore, as a token of our appreciation of her, whose loyalty and interest are ours, whose friendship is genuine, whose patience is endless, whose humor is loved, and whose service and loyalty are an inspiration, we dedicate this our 1968 annual.

The yearbook is a document published from one year to the next, recording activities of major importance to you as students. It is a chronicle which you can turn to five, ten, fifteen, or twenty years from now and reflect on these activities with sadness or fondness, depending a great deal on the emotion they bring to mind.

The yearbook is an important document in another aspect as it marks a major stone in life, particularly for the seniors. This milestone, or stepping off place, for some will mean college, for others marriage, and for still others a job which will involve their time and energy for the rest of their lives. It is here that I challenge you to do the very best you are capable of doing and to always hold your head high. You have this responsibility, to yourself, your family, your community and your school, and if you need to reflect, open your annual to page-- and remember all the promises you made then.

PANTHERS BOW TO 3-6 SEASON

LEADERS GARAGE

BENNET
782-2405

The 1967 football season was one of which the Panthers could be proud. The team did not finish the season with a winning record, but it did finish as a team that had reached football maturity. The Panthers had their problems against Sterling, Talmage, Barneston and Elmwood, but three of these four teams were ranked among the better football teams in the state. Although the team lost to these ball clubs and also to Murdock and Brock, it was given healing-wound comments by coaches who complimented the team as having one of the better defensive ball clubs they had played during the season.

Several men won special recognition for outstanding play in the Mustang Conference.

Offensive Team:

Rick Royal, Offensive Half Back
Bill Genuchi, Offensive End

Defensive Team:

Rick Nelson, Defensive End
Dave Lovercheck, Defensive Linebacker
Bruce Sturdy, Defensive Back

Steve Randall, received honorable mention on both offensive and defensive teams for guard.

These men did a tremendous job in leading the ball team, however, they were given much assistance by the remaining men on the squad and by the fans who supported the team throughout the season.

The FFA was headed by Elliot Gee. They had a membership of twenty-nine. The FFA sponsored the annual Pancake Feed and Slave Sale and hayrack ride.

Headlines make the paper

The high school newspaper, the PANTHER PRINT, was again revamped in 1967-68, from a small weekly sheet to a bi-weekly 3 or 4 page newspaper. Other changes were special features in each issue, and the use of pictures, something never done before in this newspaper.

In the fall of 1967, Ina Genuchi and Jean Beecham represented the PANTHER PRINT at the Nebraska High School Press Association Convention held on the East Campus, at the University of Nebraska. The girls learned how to construct a good school newspaper, and they were able to compare the P.P. with other school newspapers.

Another change was the selling of subscriptions to finance the printing of pictures. Later, the paper was sent to everyone living in District OR-1 once a month.

At any Palmyra High game one could see the Pep Club there to support the team. This support was also seen at out-of-town games.

Along with the team's winnings, the Pep Club won the Mustang Conference Award for the Best Pep Club. This is the second year the award has been given to Palmyra.

Pep rallies were a feature of the pre-game activities. When you heard the pep band, you knew it was time for another rally. Humorous skits were also given by the student body and cheerleaders.

Leading the cheering, the Pep Club gave the Panthers the support, spirit, and determination to succeed.

There were three changes in the Pep Club. The new constitution was put into effect along with a demerit system. Mrs. Oma Eno and Miss Jan Williams undertook the new job of sponsoring the organization. The Pep Club supported the volleyball team as well as the basketball team.

Many changes may be seen in the Pep Club, new faces, new leaders, and new sponsors, but the spirit will never die. Palmyra High School has a Pep Club of which it can be proud.

HOMECOMING 'HAPPENING'

The rainy weather canceled all the half-time ceremonies of Palmyra High School's 1967 Homecoming, on October 6. Though the Panthers were defeated on the football field, this defeat didn't dampen the spirited excitement of the coronation.

Everyone crowded into the gym to see Bill Sturdy and Natalie Rodaway relinquish their crowns to the new Queen, Betty Armbruster, and the new King, Steve Randall. Patti Roeder and Barbara Wilson, attendants to the Queen, were escorted by the King's attendants, Rick Nelson and Ron Ekstrum.

At the "Happening", the Heshians entertained the students. Op art panels, created by Pep Club artists, were hung around the gym to spark a "mod mood".

MacBird Receives Three Ones

The dramatics department of PHS, under the direction of Miss Marjorie Williss, spent many frenzied weeks of activity getting ready for the Mudecas Histrionics Contest at Sterling and the District Drama Contest in Peru. TIME OUT FOR LEISURE

Always arousing the students interest during the year are the assemblies which the administration provides. Five Assemblies were presented this year to add to the educational opportunity of each student.

On October 11, Mr. Charles Ramsden demonstrated some of his unique musical inventions. With the aid of Mary Helen Bremer, he showed how a simple rubber band, exposed to uranium, could be transformed into a lively musical instrument. Mr. Ramsden has also invented a steel guitar that produces "atomic music." This type of music closely resembles the psychedelic music of today.

Also in October, Mr. Joe Kilgore entertained the students and faculty with a talk about his experiences in the Vietnam war. He showed slides from the Delta region around the Saigon River where he was stationed.

Hand-carved marionettes, in a realistic presentation of "The Story of Christopher Columbus" was provided for the students by Mr. John Conrad on November 2. With only a few assistants to help with the mechanical part of the show, he captivated the audience with his excellent vocal capacities.

"Micki" the almost human chimp came to our school on March 27. His trainer, Merle Snyder, presented him in a clever, entertaining, and educational program. Mr. Snyder dressed Micki in children's clothes, had him eat his breakfast and do amazing acrobatic feats.

On April 24, Mr. Eddie Cole presented a fascinating trampoline and physical fitness program. Several students participated in the program; they played Spaceball and helped add to the enjoyment of the program.

When Juniors Present Play!

The junior class of the 1967-68 school year took over the stage when they presented the play, "It's Great To Be Crazy!" on Monday and Tuesday nights, March 18 and 19.

Miss Williss, the English and speech teacher and director chose the following cast:

Hercules.	BILL GENUCHI
Mrs. Maxwell.	LINDA NASH
Mr. Maxwell.	JIM BRINSON

Between the door, which fell off its hinges, and the desk which completely collapsed during the third act, the cast had many surprises to cope with that made the play "a real smash."

At the last curtain call the junior class presented Miss Williss with a dozen long-stemmed pink roses.

MOMENTS OF GLORY

The editors after a year on the PANTHER PRINT staff.

One special night, which highlighted the whole school year of 1967-68 was the annual Awards Night, held May 10. Awards were given in the fields of girls and boys sports, journalism, FHA and home economics, Pep Club, vocational agriculture and FFA, dramatics, business education, and music. Outstanding students in various courses of study were also recognized.

Basically, these are the Palmyra athletes.

"Pardon Her Back Scene" while Miss Williss passes out drama awards.

Oh, for me?

One award was not given at Awards Night. This is not an actual award, instead it is a verbal thank you to the person who has really worked hard as photographer of the PANTHER staff. The staff would like to thank Kathy Sorensen who has taken the time and effort to supply most of the candid shots used in this yearbook.

The dance band this year was created by Miss Williams, Director of Music. "El Valiente," meaning "The Valiant," was selected by the group for their title.

The group did quite well for their first year. At the Homesteader Music Contest the group received a II rating. El Valiente also participated in the Mudecas Music Contest and the Spring Concert.

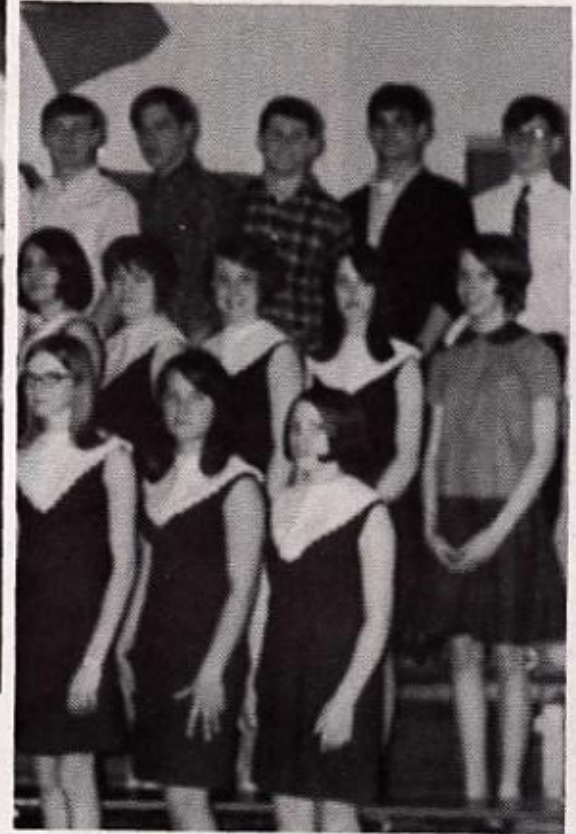

A trap set and a string bass were rented for this group. The trap set was played by Mary Bremer and the string bass was played by David Lovercheck.

The 1967-68 school year was an exciting one for the new freshmen. Perhaps the most exciting event was their first formal party--the FHA Crystal Ball.

A whirlwind of new, exciting activities marked the beginning of the high school career for the class of '71.

One main money-making project was the sale of kitchen shears. The freshmen made around $45. profit from this business venture.

The freshmen also held several parties in the 1967-68 school year, besides attending the parties sponsored by the organizations to which they belonged.

The sophomores, seasoned veterans of high school, had little trouble readjusting to school.

The class of '70 started something completely different in the line of money-making projects. They sold booster buttons with the words "WE TRY HARDER" on them. The button sales, along with a class bake sale, added funds to the class treasury in preparation for the prom to be sponsored in 1969.

Junior Class Officers

"Only one more year, " this thought was first and foremost in the minds of the juniors during the school year of 67-68.

There was little time to spend in day-dreaming about "next year" because the juniors were kept busy with studies, activities, the play, and most important, the Junior-Senior Prom.

In preparing for the big occasion, the class sold magazines and Christmas wrapping paper among other endeavors. The prom was held in the Villager Pancake House in Lincoln. The evening, corresponding to the theme was, "A Moment to Remember."

"We Have Promises To Keep And Miles To Go Before We Sleep."

Although most people think of high school commencement as an ending of a high school career, the word "commencement" is actually defined as "an act of beginning". For the twenty-six seniors in the graduating class of 1968, commencement exercises on May 15, signified the beginning of their acceptance of their roles as leaders in society.

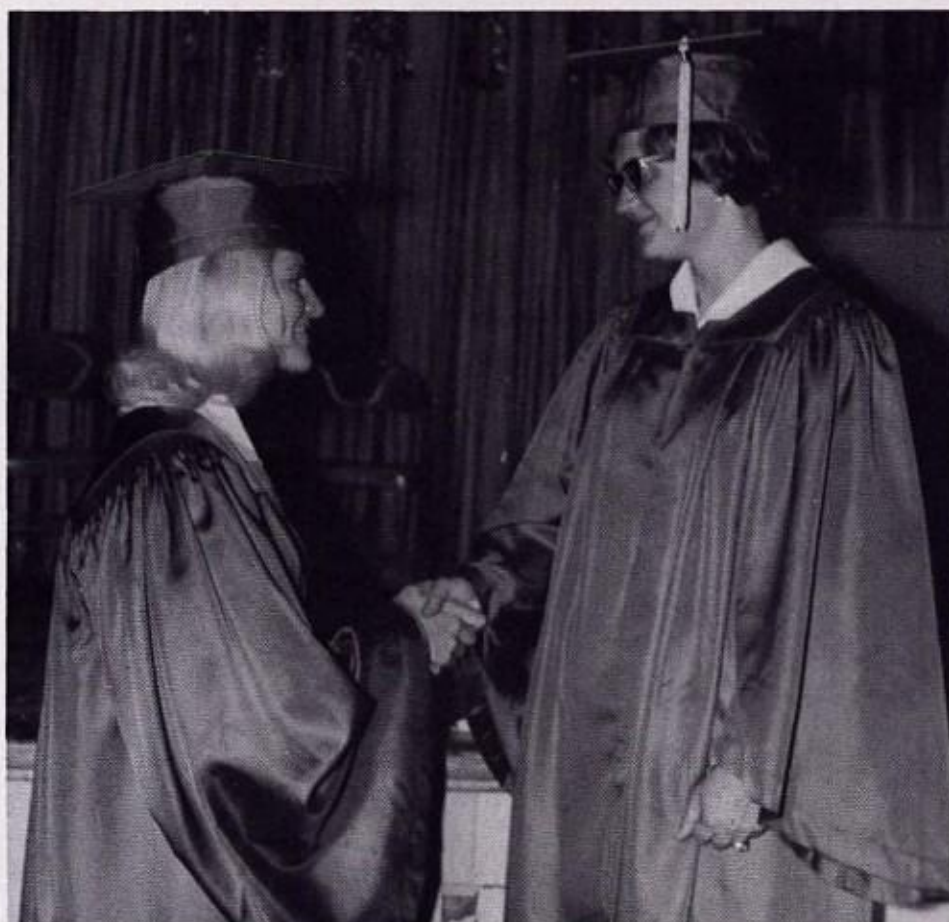

Rev. Richard Busk, pastor of the Palmyra Presbyterian Church, delivered the invocation and benediction.

Barbara Wilson and Phyllis Randall, as salutatorian and valedictorian, respectively, greeted and thanked the assembled friends and relatives of the graduated, which numbered over 1000.

Dr. Keith Prichard, associate professor of sociology at the University of Nebraska, guest speaker, delivered a very appropriate speech entitled, "Education in a Crisis-Ridden World".

Mary Bremer, Barbara Wilson, and Phyllis Randall were honored as being in the top ten percent of their class. Hilda Lovercheck received the $250 SBA Scholarship. Vicky Dickmeyer was the alternate.

Sunday, May 12, Baccalaureate exercises were held at the Palmyra High School Gymnasium. Father Edward Jaworowski, priest at St. Leo's Church in Palmyra, delivered the sermon, "The Young American Vision of the Young American Dream." Dr. William Bavis, pastor of the Community Church in Bennet, delivered the invocation and benediction.

Top two exchange congratulations.

Surprised and Delighted! Hilda received the SBA Scholarship from School Board President, Mr. Delp.

Study pays off for top three. Phyllis was also honored with the READER'S DIGEST award.

TODAY WE FOLLOW: TOMORROW WE LEAD

We, the class of 1968, have come to realize a long awaited goal--graduation. Now that it has come, we cannot help but feel that we are not really big seniors, invincible in our endeavors, but actually small beings in a tremendously complex world.

As we look back on the road which we have traveled in high school, we feel sad that we will be leaving some of our best friends behind. Yet we are glad that the long road to graduation has finally been traveled.

Our backward glances also reveal the people who made our journey a little easier, our parents, teachers, and friends. These are the people to whom we will be eternally grateful.

The road also has many rough parts. These are the losses and disappointments. The road also has had its smooth parts, the victories and moments of great happiness. We see the football games, the dances and proms, and wish that we could take them with us in our future travels up the road.

Graduation only represents an intersection in the road of education. The road ahead will be filled with many more pitfalls and rough stretches, but there is a place where we can stop from time to time to gain strength and conviction for our continuing journey. This place is the church, where our hopes and prayers may be expressed in time of need and in time of distress.

Our future journey up the road must be toward goals that are far enough away so that the realization of these goals will mean greater satisfaction. Now that we have graduated, we stand at the intersection of two roads. These are like the roads in Frost's poem, one is well trodden and one is grassy--one will be easier to travel, but it perhaps, will not reveal the satisfaction that is at the end of the rough journey. Let us set our steps on the grassy road. And if we do, will it not possibly make a difference?
